THE DEATH OF A. M. EDWARDS.

Prominent Educator Died In Boston.

Funeral at Summer Home,
Bethel, Saturday July 23rd.

The death of Ayers Mason Edwards, formerly superintendent of schools at Lewiston, comes as a sudden shock and a severe sorrow to a large group of former Lewiston friends and relatives, who appreciate his remarkable ability and his great worth as a man.

Mr. Edwards was taken ill about 10 days ago, at his summer home in Bethel, and with his wife and son went to Boston to consult physicians. His trouble was diagnosed as appendicitis and on Friday he submitted to a surgical operation in a Boston hospital. Pneumonia developed and death resulted at 7 o'clock, Thursday morning.

Mr. Edwards was a prominent educator and through his associations with leading book publishing houses had become an authority on book publications, having for years been with Ginn & Co., and MacMillan Co., both in New York and New England, respectively.

Mr. Edwards was born, Jan. 12, 1857, at Bethel. His father was Col. Clark S. Edwards, who enlisted at the opening of the war as Captain of Co. I, of the Fifth Maine Regiment and who became its colonel, renowned through the armies of Maine as "the fighting colonel of the old Fifth." At the battle of Gaines' Mill, Colonel Jackson was wounded and taken from the field and Lieut. Heath upon whom the command devolved was shot through the head and died instantly. The regiment fell under the command of Capt. Edwards, who carried it through engagements in the retreat from the Chickahominy and who, by his gallant behavior and remarkable bravery, was promoted to be lieutenant colonel, and later, upon the resignation of Col. Scammon, became colonel of the regiment. At the same time that Col. Edwards was promoted Capt. A. S. Daggett of Greene, who subsequently became the distinguished general in the regular army service was promoted to be major. In 1885, Col. Edwards was nominated for governor of Maine by the democrats against Joseph R. Bodwell of Hallowell, Col. Edwards polling about 55,000 votes to Governor Bodwell's 65,000.

The ancestry of A. M. Edwards made him a very devoted student of the war, a very earnest democrat, while the scholarly attainments of his father were reflected in the son. Mr. Edwards graduated from the schools at Bethel and entered Bowdoin College and graduated in the class of 1880. Among the members of the class were Frederick O. Conant, an attorney at Kennebunk; Franklin Goulding then of Lewiston; George B. Faxon, a Portland banker; Henry A. Wing now of Lewiston.

Mr. Edwards taught school during his college course but his disposition was toward the administration of school work rather than toward teaching. Soon after graduation he came to Lewiston as principal of the grammar school and later was elected superintendent of the public schools. He was highly successful in his school work in Lewiston, retaining the esteem of everyone yet refusing a purpose to control the schools and direction along the lines which seemed best suited to his purposes to a degree that was remarkably progressive.

While in Lewiston he married Miss Lou Hamner, daughter of Lewiston's veteran teacher of singing in the public schools, herself a teacher and a local singer of more than local fame. Soon after their marriage, Mr. Edwards was called to the superintendency of the schools in Pittsfield, Mass., a position of more importance and of larger salary than Lewiston could afford. His departure from Lewiston was the source of great regret.

From Pittsfield he went to Syracuse, N. Y., where he was representative for Ginn & Co., publishers and later took a position with MacMillan Co., having been their representative in New England for a number of years holding this position at the time of his death.

His home was at Ayrshire Court, Cambridge, Mass. He was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, a member of the Episcopal church, and a member of many educational societies. He leaves a widow and son, Sumner Edwards who was graduated from Bowdoin college in June. He also leaves three brothers, one at Bethel and two in the West.

Personally Mr. Edwards was a strong, positive character, gifted with a capacity for executive detail, with a strong business sense, and an indefatigable capacity for work. He was strict in his personal life, conservative in his views, strongly interested in his religious and moral life, given to keeping his own counsel, a firm and loyal friend, a charming conversationalist, generous and kind to everyone and a useful citizen wherever he was placed. His death at the age of 53, removes him in the height of his usefulness.—Lewiston Journal.

AYERS MASON EDWARDS.
Second Son of Col. Clark S. and Maria Mason Edwards, born in Bethel, June 12, 1857, died in Boston, July 21, 1910.

He was one of the sons of Bethel, who by a highly successful and honorable career and by a vigorous character had honored his native town, and was loved and honored by his people in return. It is pleasant for us to remember that in his last hours his thoughts turned lovingly to the village which had been his boyhood home, in which he had hoped to spend his last years. It is with pleasure, mingled with one unhappy memory, that we recall the summer in which he has made this the summer home of his family. Not only here among his

RECEPTION TO MR. AND MRS. BROSEAU.

Given By George Paquin At Gonya Hall.

Event Took Place Monday Evening and was very Pleasant.

A wedding reception to Mr. Henry Brosseau and his bride, who was Miss Eva Carey of Waterville, was given at Gonya Hall Monday evening by Mr. George Paquin and was largely attended. The hall was very tastefully decorated with palms and ferns and numerous electric fans made what would have been an extremely warm evening, very comfortable.

As the guests entered the hall they were presented with carnations by the Gonya twins, Jeannette and Bernette, the little Misses being dressed in white and looking so much alike that it was hard to tell one from the other.

While the guests were arriving, the Lafayette Orchestra of nine pieces rendered an excellent concert and also gave much pleasure by their playing for the order of dances that followed later in the evening.

Mrs. Brosseau, the bride, was very attractively gowned in messaline silk of old blue, handsomely braided and of the princess effect. The handsome dresses of the other ladies present also added much to the beauty of the affair.

Punch and other refreshments were served. The affair was delightfully informal and each one present seemed to be enjoying himself to the utmost. Mrs. Brosseau received a hearty welcome to the community and has already made many friends.

ACCIDENT AT WEST BETHEL.

What might have been a very serious accident occurred Tuesday A. M., at West Bethel when a can of denatured alcohol exploded in the printing department of Whitten and Dennison.

The fire was quickly extinguished but Mr. H. N. Head was painfully but not seriously burned. The flames burst around his head, singeing his hair and eyebrows, but his hands and one leg were badly burned. All concerned were thankful it was no worse.

MAINE LIKES TAFT AND TAFT LIKES MAINE.

President Taft's visit to Maine was beneficial to the State and the President and everybody hopes he will come often as stay longer. He visited Bangor, Bar Harbor, Bangor and at Ellsworth was the guest of Senator Hale.

There were 7000 people at Bangor to hear his address and he declared Bangor to be one of the most beautiful cities he had ever visited. He spoke of the great men Maine had given to the country, mentioning Hannibal Hamlin, the associate and supporter of Lincoln; Chief Justice Peters; the late Congressman Boutelle "to whose energy and interest the American Navy to-day owes much." Taftenden, Reed, Maine, Dingley, Frye and Hale.

"The truth is," said the president, "that you of Maine have exerted a great deal more influence in Congress than under ordinary circumstances you would have been entitled to—the reason for this, the ears and wisdom with which you have selected your Congressmen and Senators and the conservatism with which you have kept them in Congress until the country knew their influence and loved before their power."

The President then spoke of the life farms in Maine and said there was no reason why the young men of the State after studying agriculture, should not settle down right here at home and by the application of scientific principles become millionaires as the farmers of the West are becoming. He did not discuss politics at all on this trip.

Gov. Fernald, ex-Governors Cobb and Hill and Representatives Burleigh and Garvey were in the party which went by special train to Mt. Desert Ferry to meet Mr. Taft and escort him to Bangor, Monday, Pres. Taft reached at Bangor with A. H. Crafts of Cin-

BUSINESS MEN'S LADIES' NIGHT.

First Event Complimen- tary To The Ladies

Since The New Club Rooms
Were Completed.

For the first time Monday evening, the gentlemen of the Rumford Business Men's Club opened their beautiful new Club rooms in an event complimentary to the ladies, and the first of many very pleasant social events which will doubtless be given by the club members in the coming years passed into history as one to be remembered with much pleasure.

The club rooms never looked more inviting and the liberal use of electric fans made a torrid evening very comfortable. In the reading room tables had been arranged for bridge while the reception hall had been prepared for dancing by the removal of the art squares and placing of the furniture about the sides of the hall.

An orchestra composed of Walter Rolfe, piano; P. J. Rigby clarinet; Moritz, violin; C. J. Leary, cello, furnished fine music for the evening.

Carnations were provided for the guests and refreshments of ice cream and fancy crackers, punch, etc., were served during the evening. The affair was in all respects most pleasant and enjoyable.

The Committee of arrangements was Messrs. Theodore Hawley, E. L. Lovejoy, E. S. Kennard and E. A. Sheehy.

LOCAL HISTORY.

The Bridges Over the An- droscoggin at Bethel.

Incidental Memorandum—By Leonard B. Chapman.
Number 66.

The present bridge over the Androscoggin at Bethel is built of wood and of the pattern known as "true bridge" and a "true" the dictionary tells us "is a framed assemblage of timbers." There are numerous patterns for bridge and other kind of work where supports are wide apart. The structure at Bethel is supported by three pairs of worked granite, one upon each embankment of the river and one in the middle of the stream. The spans are each one hundred and fifty feet long and the bridge is sufficiently wide for two carriage ways. At the northern end there is a wooden approach, same width and same height and constructed the same way as the main structure, a hundred feet long, one end of which rests upon the bridge pier, the other upon the sand, or stone breastwork which is several feet lower than the end that rests upon the pier. Under this approach the water of the river flows only in high freshets. This feature, or approach does not add to the "charm" of the appearance of the main structure, but it furnishes an easy way in the two long spans. Under it, on having way to secure on one of the islands of the river and those who have occasion to enter upon the lee of the stream in winter find easy and ample accommodations by passing under the approach from one side to the other.

The name of the person who made the design of the bridge does not live in tradition. It may have been the plan of Thomas Holt, whose "beautiful design" Dr. Nathaniel T. True saw and noticed in the Bethel Courier. Had a tablet been placed upon the structure as is the custom now, the public would be wiser, therefore at this time.

element, who has a summer cottage there. Tuesday he spent an hour in Rockland making a ten minute speech.

RUNAWAY ACCI- DENT AT BETHEL.

Tuesday Morning. Mr. Wm. Lowe Injured.

Fortunate Escape From What Might Have Been Fatal Accident.

Tuesday morning about ten o'clock, as Mr. William Lowe was starting for the hay field, with a horse belonging to Bert Brown of Albany, he was a victim of what might have been a very serious runaway accident.

When about opposite the post office the horse was frightened by an automobile and soon became unmanageable, running down Main Street to the store of C. K. Fox. When nearly opposite Mr. Fox's store, Mr. Lowe either tried to jump from the wagon or was thrown and landed between the kicking horse and the wagon. The horse was guided toward the sidewalk and encountered another team which had just stopped in front of the store. This horse was knocked down, the other going completely over him, where he was stopped by Mr. Fox and others.

Mr. Lowe escaped with one rib broken and another fractured and a few scratches and bruises from what seemed to the onlookers, almost certain death.

The horses were uninjured except for some scratches, but the wagon to which the runaway horse was hitched was badly damaged.

GRAND TRUNK STRIKE.
The Grand Trunk strike continues on the even tenor of its way with both sides still professing satisfaction with their respective positions. On the eastern division orders have been given out to accept all freight with the exception of perishable goods and cattle. The strikers continue to say that such progress as the road is making means that unless the rails be soon increased, business in the towns served by the road will be tied up.

Several attempts to derail trains have been made and have succeeded to a certain extent in some instances. The usual excursion trains were run Sunday, the down train in the morning being about an hour late. The latest train on this division was last Sunday morning, when the early train due at 4:15 a. m. was 11 hours late. This was due to the train being derailed near Richmond, P. Q., by a misplaced switch which had evidently been tampered with. Only a portion of the train left the wreck and no one was injured.

The Grand Trunk officials have announced that all they want is protection for the men willing to work and they will do the rest.

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

"You gave on the way a pleasant smile,
And thought no more about it;
It cheered a life that was sad and wild,
That might have been wrecked without it.
And so for the smile and the fruitage
rare,
You will win reward, sometime, somewhere."
If little things are vexing you,
As down life's journey you pursue,
Don't worry.
Don't be down-hearted, blue nor glum,
Just take your trials as they come—E'en then you'll find your taking some.
Don't worry.

Don't hunt for trouble, high nor low,
'Twill follow you wherever you go,
Don't worry.
If you take simply what's your due,
And let the rest go up the due,
You'll have enough to worry you,
Don't worry.

WHEN THE TIDE IS LOW.
Some time at eve, when the tide is low,
I shall slip my mooring and sail away,
With no response to a friendly hail
Of kindred craft in a busy bay,
In the silent hush of the twilight pale,
When the night stoops down to embrace the day,
And the voices call in the waters flow—
Some time at eve when the tide is low,
I shall slip my mooring and sail away
To mystic lands, where at anchor lay
The craft of those who have sailed before,
O'er the unknown sea to the unknown
shore,
A few who have watched me sail away,
Will miss my craft from the busy bay;
Some friendly barks that were anchored near,
Some loving souls that my heart held
dear,
In silent sorrow will drop a tear;
But I shall have peacefully furled my sail
In moorings sheltered from storm and gale,
And greeted the friends who have sailed before
O'er the unknown sea to the unknown
shore.

THE SHEAF OF RICHEST GRAIN.
He saw the ripe wheat waiting,
All golden in the sun,
And strong and stalwart reaper
Went by him, one by one,
"Oh could I reap in harvest!"
His heart made bitter cry;
"I can do nothing, nothing,
So weak, alas! am I."

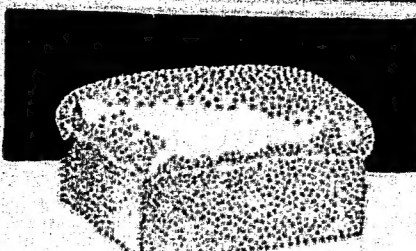

At eve, a fainting traveler
Ran down beside his door—
A cup of cool, sweet water
To quench his thirst he bore,
And when, refreshed and strengthened,
The traveler went his way;
Upon the poor man's threshold
A golden sheaf of grain lay.

When came the Lord of harvest,
He cried: "O Master kind!
One sheaf have I to offer,
And that I did not bind;
I gave a cup of water
To one athirst and he Left at my door in going
The sheaf I offer thee."

Then said the Lord of harvest,
"Well pleased with this am I;
One of my angels left it
With thee as he passed by.
Then mayst not join the reapers
Upon the harvest plain,
But whose helps a brother,
Bliss sheweth of richest grain."
—American Cultivator.

RECOMPENSE.

How many things are clear to us to-day
That yesterday we saw through mist of tears!
How many things are better than our foes—
What sunbeams through our self-wrought shadows play.
Not one fair, earnest hope is laid away
Without its thread of weary, wasted years,
But from the tangled grain where it
poers,
Fall soon, some blossom, radiant of May,
We stretch imploring hands to Heaven
and pray
That this, or that, be granted whilst we plead;
We turn with empty hands from prayer and say
"We are unheeded, forgotten, lost in deadly"

When, lo, within our reach some priceless gift
For which imploring palms we dared not lift.

IF WE KNEW.

If we knew the cares and crosses
Crowded round our neighbor's way;
If we knew the little losses,
Sorely grievous day by day,
Would we then so often chide him
For the lack of thrift and gain—
Heaving on his heart a shadow,
Leaving on our heart a stain!

If we knew that clouds above us,
Held by gentle blessings there,
Would we turn away all trembling,
In our blind and weak despair!
Would we shrink from little shadows,
Lying on a dewy grass,
While 'tis only birds of Eden,
Just in mercy flying past!

If we knew the silent story,
Quivering through the heart of pain,
Would our womanhood dare doom them
Back to haunts of vice and shame!
Life has many a tangled crossing,
Joy has many a break of woe,
And the cheeks tear-washed are whitest.

Let us reach within our bosoms
For the key to other lives,
And with love to erring nature
Cherish good that still survives;
So that when our dirobed spirits
Soar to realms of light again,
We may say, dear Father, judge us
As we judge our fellowmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mansell of Brookline, Mass., have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Bartlett the past which all enjoyed a social dance with about forty couples on the grand march.

A SUSTAINING DIET.
These are the sustaining days, when,
as somebody has said, men drop by the roadside as if the Day of Fire had descended. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic—say, a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.

was born in Paris Dec. 31, 1815. His ancestors came from Wareham, Mass.,
and settled on a farm at North Paris,
then known as "The Harbor." Mr.
Benson became a farmer and has always been a resident near this little hamlet until some two years ago he came to Woodstock to reside with a niece. His wife, who was Charlotte Benson died some thirty years ago. Of their three children only one survives health until the end came. His mind was perfectly clear and he delighted in telling stories of his younger days and he was certainly authority on the history of his neighborhood and the little village of North Paris for the past sixty years. The funeral was held on Thursday and the remains were

THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1910.

There is probably, no human faculty that is more in need of faithful and patient cultivation than the judgment, for there is none that has more difficulties to deal with or more difficulties to overcome. Nevertheless, there is, perhaps, none which receives less systematic discipline, or upon which people are generally less willing to expend labor and thought. They train their children's memory, exercise their powers of expression, school them in habits of industry, endurance, patience and self-control, but seldom discipline their judgment or teach them how to draw correct conclusions. That, they suppose, is something which time and experience will do for them, yet when they see what hasty opinions and ill-considered judgments are continually formed by older people, they might infer that some definite education in this respect was necessary for both young and old.

GOOD LANGUAGE.

A very valuable habit for a family to acquire is that of using pure and precise language. As a matter of fact, such an acquisition is desirable. There are dignity and grace in the very form of language correctly and concisely spoken. There is a charm in the speaker who is careful of his manner of speech. But far more important than the beauty of correct speech is the intellectual vigor which it stimulates and promotes. The use of good language encourages the habit of clear thinking. Speaking well and thinking well naturally go together. The intellectual process largely controls the manner of expression. This does not commend the use of stilted and pompous language, for that can be, and sometimes is, used, to conceal the lack of thought. Our object is to discourage mazy, incoherent, scrappy and slangy speech. People who use such language have confused ideas and lack an appreciation of what is true and beautiful. There is nothing more serviceable in making good clean men and women out of children, than a household habit of clear and concise expression. It promotes not only thinking, but thoughtfulness, and thoughtfulness, is one of the greatest virtues of a home. But make exact and proper speech one of the institutions of the home and it will remove from the heart many anxieties for the future of the child.

REMARKABLE DIRT.

Scientifically considered, dirt is only matter out of place, and economically considered, it is of the utmost use to civilization. "What an easy life we should have if there were no dirt!" said a lady to her washwoman. "I shouldn't say so," replied the latter. "I should starve," replied Bridget, and she spoke for hundreds of thousands of women the world over. It would be interesting to discover how many hours of wage-earning work which may be called cleaning—including washing, ironing, scrubbing, sweeping, dusting, polishing, cleaning—are done in one day among our 50,000,000 people. A single institution like the Boston public library gives 25,000 hours of work each year to scrubwomen alone. In cities the work goes on day and night. No wonder the sweeping and dusting done in the houses of the town than an army of women with pans and brooms invade the shops and offices, where they fight with dirt literally from night till morning. Here as we are in America trying to keep clean, Holland stands as the art. There the housewives scrub and sweep floors and windows and other outside light poles, and one may even see a street-sweeper mowing lawns and sweeping a lawn on a public square. In the Netherlands the women sweep the streets as well as the houses at large. Fortunately for all clean men, they desire to be clean lies very deep in the noblest qualities of human nature. Wesley's famous saying: "Cleanliness is next to godliness," may be traced back hundreds of years to the wise teaching of the Jewish rabbi, Phinehas ben Yair: "The doctrines of religion are resolved into carefulness; carefulness into vigorousness; vigorousness into guilelessness; guilelessness into abstemiousness; abstemiousness into cleanliness; cleanliness into godliness."

COST OF MAINTAINING A TUBERCULOSIS SANATORIUM

In a preliminary bulletin on the cost of maintaining a tuberculosis sanatorium, the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis announces to-day that the average cost per patient per day in thirty semi-charitable sanatoria scattered in all parts of the United States is $1.488. These institutions represent an expenditure of over $1,300,000 and over $15,000 days of treatment given each year. The bulletin, which is part of an extensive study the National Association is making for its bureau of information, points out how the country could save annually at least $150,000,000, if the indigent consumptives were properly segregated.

It was found that the food cost in most institutions represented one-third of the annual expenditures. The average daily food cost per patient was $0.444. The expenditures for the salaries and wages represented nearly another third, being $0.451 per day per patient out of a total of $1.669. The fuel, oil and light cost was $0.205 per capita per diem or about one-eighth of the total cost.

The daily cost in the several institutions ranged all the way from $0.314 per patient to $2.255. In the far West and Southwest, as in Colorado and New Mexico and California the cost was higher than in the East, in New York and New England, being $2.025 per patient as against $1.745.

The total expenditures of the thirty institutions were $1,365,253.25, while the total receipts from all sources were $1,515,253.74. More than 70 per cent of the receipts were received from public funds and private benefactions, only 23.5 per cent being from patients. Stated in another way, only 33 per cent of the total expenditures were received from patients, the remainder being made up from the other sources.

Computing that there are in the United States at least 300,000 indigent consumptives who should be cared for in charitable or semi-charitable sanatoria and hospitals, the National Association estimates that the annual cost to the country for the treatment of these persons would be $20,000,000 at the rate of $1.669 per day per patient. At the lowest possible estimate, the country loses $200,000,000 a year from the incapacity of these indigent victims of tuberculosis. This would mean a net saving of $150,000,000 a year to the United States if all cases of consumptives who are too poor to afford proper treatment in expensive sanatoria were cared for at the expense of the municipality, county or state. And this annual gain does not include the enormous saving that would accrue from the lessened infection due to the segregation of the dangerous consumptives in institutions.

HALTS RAISING OF MAINE.

Typographical Error in Law May Hold Up Work for a Year.

It is possible that a typographical error may delay for another year the raising of the battleship Maine from the mud of Havana harbor. If such a delay occurs it is more than likely that Representative Butler, of New York, will conclude that the fates are against him. For years Mr. Butler has kept alive the agitation for raising the wrecked vessel. He delivered many eloquent speeches on behalf of this cause, and at the last session of Congress his efforts met with success, an appropriation of $200,000 being authorized. This appropriation was made in two separate bills.

The first act, which was approved on May 9, carried an appropriation of $100,000, and provided that "the secretary of war and the chief of engineers are hereby authorized and directed to provide with all convenient speed for the raising or removal of the wreck of the battleship Maine from the harbor of Havana, Cuba, and for the proper interment of the bodies therein in Arlington cemetery."

Shortly after this passage the army engineers reported that $100,000 was not sufficient with which to make a proper start, and an item of $200,000 was inserted in the urgent deficiency bill. The clause making provision for this appropriation set forth that it should be expended for raising or removing the wreck of the Maine "in accordance with the provisions of the act approved May 10, 1910."

The act referred to was approved on May 9, and not May 10. It was clearly the intent of Congress to refer to the act of May 9, but the war department officials have decided that nothing can be done until the attorney general officially sets forth whether or not the $200,000 shall be considered as applying to the $100,000 already appropriated by the act of May 9. A palpable typographical error has been made, but the war department wants an opinion on it.

There is still another slight technical point which the attorney general has also been asked to decide. The officials want to know whether, under the terms of the act, they are merely to "provide" for the raising of the wreck and then report to Congress the plans decided upon and wait further authorization before beginning the work, or whether the act authorizes them to go ahead with the work.

Considerable complaint is heard of the way the spring water at the two drinking stands in the Park is being wasted. Doubtless the long spell of dry weather has had its effect upon the dew of the spring and this with the fact that children and some older as well, are allowed to play with the water and waste large quantities of it with the result that it has frequently happened at late that when people come to get water for drinking purposes, the supply had been needlessly wasted and they were obliged to do without or drink the city water, something that no one cares to do. If people would stop for a moment and consider the rights and privileges of others, we think they would not, neither would they allow their children, to foolishly waste the water needed by others for drinking purposes.

When Rumford people are in need of rain all it is necessary to do is to get the manager of the band to advertise a band concert. Every evening that an attempt to have a band concert has been made this season it has failed during the afternoon so that it has made it damp and uncomfortable for the audience, or it has rained so hard at the time that the concert has been postponed. Friday evening was no exception. The concert was given but the showers had made things so moist that it was necessary for most of those that attended to stand during the concert. Although several members of the band are away on vacation, the music rendered was first class and gave its usual satisfaction. The program as played was as follows:

March's Triumphal March.
Hungarian Comedy Overture.
Anybody Here Seen Kelly?
Olympic Lull.
Russek's Min No. 7.
Blue Danube Waltzes.

Teay Lavi, a Poleander received a fine of $1 and costs in the Municipal Court Thursday morning because of a disturbance that he created at John Wilmont's house Sunday afternoon. The State's witness were two Polish ladies that were there at the time and the evidence tended to show that Lavi had been indulging in beer rather freely, had knocked a flower pot and some other things on to the floor and had refused to leave the house when requested to do so. It was necessary to take the evidence through an interpreter and as the ladies insisted on giving very lengthy answers to questions that could have been answered by "yes" or "no" the hearing occupied a considerable part of the forenoon.

The Young Women's Conference at East Northfield, which was concluded July 13th, has been remarkably successful. The Rev. J. Stuart Holden of London, who, it was feared at first would be unable to speak, gave a strong series of talks toward the end of the Conference. The Rev. Omer Davies of Chicago, Miss Margaret Blatter of the Fitchburg Normal School, Rev. George B. Cody of Dorchester and Rev. John McDowell of Newark were the other principal speakers. Large delegations from girls' preparatory schools and various churches made a sum of delegates over 400. The Conference was culminated in the afternoon by a ball game, a grand field day, a tennis tournament and many drives. The tennis tournament was very close, being finally won by Miss Edith White of the New York City Mission, a former champion.

The Home Missionary Conference opened July 14, with an address by Congressman William S. Bennett of New York, now at the head of a special commission on "Naturalization." He speaks as "An American."

Almost Blew Him Up.

Everything was quiet in the little cigar store when the old farmer rushed in and brought his umbrella down on the showcase with a whack that almost broke the glass.

"You weasel-eyed shrimp!" he shouted. "What do you mean by selling me a loaded cigar? I lit it and blamed it a puff of flame didn't leap out and set my hair afire."

The clerk arose and rubbed his eyes.
"A loaded cigar?" he echoed in astonishment. "Why, my dear sir, we don't sell loaded cigars."

"Well you sold me this one because here are the pieces."

And then the clerk had to laugh.
"You insisted upon paying 50 cents for a good cigar, didn't you?"

"I did, young man!"

"Well, the 50-cent cigars always come in an air-proof celluloid tube and you must have lit the cigar without removing the tube. Here's another one without the tube. Smoke it on me, sir."

THERE are three different kinds of Ginger Ale:

Domestic,
Imported and CLICQUOT CLUB

Those who have tried all three kinds, prefer Clicquot Club, because it lacks the burning sting in other ginger ales, caused by the red pepper, and because its quality and taste are undeniably superior.

Clicquot Club Ginger Ale

The best fresh ginger and the best sugar (not saccharine) are used in Clicquot Club, with a dash of pure citric fruit flavor. The water (Clicquot Spring water) is the best ginger ale water in the world,
and the carbonat-
ing and bottling is perfect.

Clicquot Club Ginger
Ale is non-alcoholic.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

Pleasant Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as they Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide.

The Old-Fashioned Woman
No clever, brilliant thinker, she,
With college record and degree;
She has not known the paths of fame;
The world has never heard her name;
She walks in old-fashioned ways—
The valleys of the yesterdays.

Around her childish heart are twined,
As with some reverent saint anshrine;
And following her, the childish feet
Are lead to ideals true and sweet,
And find all purity and good,
In her divinest motherhood.

She keeps her faith unshaken still,
God rules the world in good and ill;
Men in her creed are brave and true,
And women pure as pearls of dew;
And life for her is high and grand,
By work and high endeavor spanned.

This sad old earth's a brighter place
All for the sunshine of her face;
Her very smile a blessing throws,
And hearts are happier where she goes,
A gentle clear-eyed messenger,
To whisper love—thank God for her!

The future destiny of the child is always the work of the mother.—Napoleon.

Let us candidly confess our indebtedness to the needle. How many hours of sorrow has it softened, how many bitter irritations calmed, how many confused thoughts reduced to order, how many life-plans sketched in purple—Caroline H. Dall.

The good husband keeps his wife in the wholesome ignorance of unnecessary secrets. They will not be starved with the ignorance who, perchance, may suffer with the knowledge of weighty counsels, too heavy for the weaker sex to bear. He knows little who will tell his wife all he knows.—Steale.

Boys, you have but one mother; care for her and spare her. She is not a beast of burden to drive along the highway of life. There is no love like your mother's love; you may not know it now, but you will some day.

There is no doubt but that a large percent of the degradation, disgrace, ruin and crime among the young, springs from the habit of night prowling, corner loafing and kindred acts by both sexes in city, town and hamlet all over this broad country. Any person who keeps his or her eyes open knows this. Hundreds of boys and girls are out at night; we all know that many influences for evil and none for good surround them continually. A curfew restriction may be devised as old fashioned and puritanical, but the fact remains that there is vast by less night prowling in towns that have a curfew ordinance and enforce it.

The fairest and sweetest joy is that brought to a man by the loving hand of a wife. The sweetest thought in that of life journey, when, hand in hand, she, the wife, becomes the guiding star as he scales the small mountain of success, or as, with him, she penetrates the shadow land and dismal valley of failure, despair and grief. The ecstasy of joy or the pain of grief cannot change the divinity of a wife's love. The blackest cloud that can darken the horizon of a man is the one which, encircling the brow with death, takes from a husband's embrace his life companion. It is then that all cares, sorrows and pains of life seem blended in one; it is then that an unfathomable ocean seems to engulf him with its angry billows.

FOR THE BOYS.
You who are men in years and yet, just entering manhood, stop and consider life as it is. Remember, "action is the essence of character," good or bad. This character building is a daily thing, so consider your ways and weigh your actions, and build wisely.

What are your aims? Are you striving to develop yourself, mentally and morally, so as to have an influence in some community? Your boys will be future men of our country, our law makers, and they should be men who honor the law, they should be men of principle, who cannot be corrupted by bribes, who have the moral courage to do their duty. When a community looks such men, will and courage, it is proud. How much the well-being of a community depends upon the character, upright men in it.

Many communities have the young men there come to realize with evil influence in every generation in life. Yet there is within ourselves boys, a recuperating force (if used) that will enable you to withstand temptations, and so overcome the evil influences.

WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDAY, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letter as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

with which you will surely come in contact. Bring your reasoning powers to bear. Argue with yourselves the certain and moral degradation if you continue in a wrong course. Bring your will power to bear and keep under the low appetites and the little mean things that corrupt any who give way to them. Have a high standard, choose a right open path in life. Nothing to hide, nothing to be ashamed of.

Listen to the counsel of your parents. Seek the home nest and its pure influences. Shun places of vice and evil in every form. Look carefully over the record of the past. Are you proud of it? Are you willing it should be read out? Are you satisfied with it? If you can't say yes, let your every effort be to better your condition.

GOOD THINGS TO KNOW.
That it takes two to prolong a family quarrel; one can therefore terminate it.
That filling a house with bargains keeps a couple from owning the house in which they place them.

That if we thought all we said we'd be wise, but if we said all we thought we'd be foolish.
That proud people seldom have friends. In prosperity they know nobody; in adversity nobody knows them.

That to make long-lived friendships one must be slow in making them.
That the woman who gains a trifle meanly is meaner than the trifle.

LESSONS OF THE TELEPHONE.
"One thing the telephone has taught me," said a quick-tempered man, "is patience and I think I may say courtesy, and I don't doubt that in that way, quite apart from its actual usefulness, the telephone has been a world-wide benefactor. I used to fume and storm when using it, but now I keep calm. I've been fairly worn down or rather ironed smooth by the exchange operator's cool, impatient tranquility. In the face of that I'm ashamed to rage and I don't say more at the telephone, but the really great thing about this is the influence it has exerted upon me in other directions. Compelled to be calm at the telephone, I find myself more and more inclined to keep cool away from it, less inclined to fly off the handle, more likely in all situations to keep my head on and to be patient and courteous."

LOCAL HISTORY.

The six segments of a circle constructed of wood, three upon each side with ends resting upon the piers, have been added to insure the safety of the public, because a little use of the structure as originally placed furnished unmistakable proof that it was not able to do the work required of it. The segments of the circle are made of plank, one placed upon another making a support 8x8 inches square to which the floor timbers are attached by bolts passing from the circle downward and through the floor timbers of the bridge.

Messrs. Jedediah G. Lary and Nathan Piper, it is claimed, done the stone work from material quarried at "Moses Rock" in Shelburne, N. H., and Capt. Richardson & Son of Grovington, N. H., added the wooden part, every stick of which was prepared at that place and was ready to be placed in position when it arrived. Mr. David B. Brown, a son of Josiah of Bethel, who claims he assisted in placing the structure in position, furnishes this item of interesting information. The contractors for the stone and wood work were non-residents.

The bridge had barely been opened to travel when a practice in toll collecting was inaugurated that has been an injury to a majority of the taxpayers of the town from that day to this—a period of forty years—a practice that has taken unjustly from the taxpayers' pockets a large sum of money.

The final step was made in 1871 when by vote of the town, for reasons not now to be stated, "the selectmen were authorized to furnish the town treasurer with bridge tickets to be sold by the quantity to parties desiring them." This seems fair on the face of the proceeding but the tax payers are now paying $800 annually for the objectionable financial operation then indulged in and have done so forty years and will years to come.

But reduced rates of toll for those who had the means of paying in advance on a conventional rate of toll was not sufficient to appease the requirements of some and at a town meeting held 1873 it was voted to oppose the attempt being made to repeal the law for the establishment of a toll bridge in Bethel and the right to collect toll, and a committee was chosen to go before the State law power at Augusta with the object in view.

At a town meeting held January 29, 1874, it was "voted to resist the petition before the legislature asking for the repeal of the legislative act permitting the town of Bethel collecting toll on the bridge across the Androscoggin river at Barker's Ferry."

"The Annual Report of the Officers of the Town of Bethel" do not present a separate account of the expenditures of money upon these bridges and two ferries. I fall to find anything in the half score of printed works I have examined covering a period of as many years but not consecutive years. These reports are not only deficient in this respect but in others. The official transactions cannot be learned from obtainable data in the public town archives; it can be learned however, there were bagging proceedings in connection with the sale of toll bridge tickets. The influences that actuated officials were numerous—too numerous to account at this time. The act of incorporation was wrong, the final disposition provided for at the end of twenty years was not equitable and the tax payers of the town ought now to be relieved of the burden.

In the spring of 1903, some twenty years after the completion of the bridge it was publicly reported there were standing against the bridge, becoming due in 1898, and bearing interest at the rate of four per cent:

$18,100.00
Outstanding notes
7,000.00
$25,100.00

Total claims against the town $27,311.81
The report of this year (1910) makes it appear the bonded debt of the town is $21,000.00
Net debt, or total liability of the town $21,363.41

But what part of this $21,363.41 stands against the town on account of the toll bridge does not appear.

The practice of the board of selectmen was to sell or bargain all the individual permits possible to cross during the time for which the respective board was elected and then sell to some individual a privilege to collect the amount sold by the selectmen and toll fees from the transient patrons, the toll collector taking for his pay what was left after paying the town the stipulated price.

The first record I find of "Bridge Permits" is dated 1851—eleven years after the bridge was opened to the patronage of the traveling public. There are now hundred and forty-one entries of names of persons who received permits amounting to $112.50. No names of officials given though the document before me is "official."

As near as I can ascertain the right to collect toll was granted March 31, 1853 was to John C. Stiles and there were 183 persons who purchased "permits."

March 7, 1884, bridge permits to the number of 182 were sold receipts amounting to $541.00
"Right to collect sold to J. C. Stiles for $350.00"

"Income to town $801.50"
